

50 Must-See Fall Exhibitions

Central image: Luke Diiorio, Untitled, 2015, pigment, acrylic, bleach, marker and graphite on hand-folded linen and canvas, 182.88 x 81.28 cm

50 Must-See Fall Exhibitions

With September just around the corner, Artsy scanned fall's brimming show schedule—replete with headlining historical surveys, intriguing rediscoveries, and much-anticipated solos by rising stars. Below, we've selected 50 gallery exhibitions not-to-miss, from Copenhagen to Cape Town, New York to Shanghai.

Luke Diiorio at Pippy Houldsworth Gallery

SEP. 4–OCT. 3, 6 HEDDON STREET

In his first solo exhibition in the UK, Diiorio continues his practice of folding raw linen and canvas into textured, minimalist works. Through creases of varied thickness and deliberate staining with household bleaches and baking soda, the New York-based artist creates subtle patterns that feel both everyday (a venetian blind, a folded shirt) and illusory (an origami masterpiece, a shapeshifting magic carpet).

Artsy Editors